About MO-FEAT

Missouri Families for Effective Autism Treatment (MO-FEAT) was incorporated in 1997 as a Missouri not-for-profit 501(c)3 organization in response to the lack of effective treatment available for individuals living with autism throughout Missouri. MO-FEAT’s mission is to provide advocacy, education, and support for families and the autism community, and to support early diagnosis and effective treatment.

Advocacy: Advocating for access to effective autism treatment and services

Education: Educating families and communities about early diagnosis and effective treatment.

Support: Assisting families in connecting to available resources and supports.

We focus on providing information and resources for Missouri families and receive thousands of calls and emails yearly. Please call us if you have any questions about the information in this directory or need help finding services, supports, or answers.

What is Autism?

Facts About ASDs

Autism spectrum disorders (ASDs) are a group of developmental disabilities that can cause significant social, communication and behavioral challenges. People with ASDs handle information in their brain differently than other people.

ASDs are “spectrum disorders.” That means ASDs affect each person in different ways, and can range from very mild to severe. People with ASDs share some similar symptoms, such as problems with social interaction. But there are differences in when the symptoms start, how severe they are, and the exact nature of the symptoms.

Types of ASDs

There are three different types of ASDs:

- Autistic Disorder (also called “classic” autism)
  This is what most people think of when hearing the word “autism.” People with autistic disorder usually have significant language delays, social and communication challenges, and unusual behaviors and interests. Many people with autistic disorder also have intellectual disability.

- Asperger Syndrome
  People with Asperger syndrome usually have some milder symptoms of autistic disorder. They might have social challenges and unusual behaviors and interests. However, they typically do not have problems with language or intellectual disability.

- Pervasive Developmental Disorder – Not Otherwise Specified (PDD-NOS; also called “atypical autism”)
  People who meet some of the criteria for autistic disorder or Asperger syndrome, but not all, may be diagnosed with PDD-NOS. People with PDD-NOS usually have fewer and milder symptoms than those with autistic disorder. The symptoms might cause only social and communication challenges.

Signs and Symptoms

ASDs begin before the age of 3 and last throughout a person’s life, although symptoms may improve over time. Some children with an ASD show hints of future problems within the first few months of life. In others, symptoms might not show up until 24 months or later. Some children with an ASD seem to develop normally until around 18 to 24 months of age and then they stop gaining new skills, or they lose the skills they once had. A person with an ASD might:

- Not respond to their name by 12 months
- Not point at objects to show interest (point at an airplane flying over) by 14 months
- Not play "pretend" games (pretend to "feed" a doll) by 18 months
- Avoid eye contact and want to be alone
- Have trouble understanding other people’s feelings or talking about their own feelings
- Have delayed speech and language skills
- Repeat words or phrases over and over (echolalia)
- Give unrelated answers to questions
- Get upset by minor changes
- Have obsessive interests
- Flap their hands, rock their body, or spin in circles
- Have unusual reactions to the way things sound, smell, taste, look, or feel
Diagnosis

Developmental Screening
Developmental screening is a short test to tell if children are learning basic skills when they should, or if they might have delays. During developmental screening the doctor might ask the parent some questions or talk and play with the child during an exam to see how she learns, speaks, behaves, and moves. A delay in any of these areas may be a sign of a problem.

Comprehensive Diagnostic Evaluation
The second step of diagnosis is a comprehensive evaluation. This thorough review may include looking at the child's behavior and development and interviewing the parents. It may also include a hearing and vision screening, genetic testing, neurological testing, and other medical testing.

In some cases, the primary care doctor might choose to refer the child and family to a specialist for further assessment and diagnosis. Specialists who can do this type of evaluation include:

- Developmental Pediatricians (doctors who have special training in child development and children with special needs)
- Child Neurologists (doctors who work on the brain, spine, and nerves)
- Child Psychologists or Psychiatrists (doctors who know about the human mind)

Types of Treatments

There are many different types of treatments available. For example, auditory training, discrete trial training, vitamin therapy, anti-yeast therapy, facilitated communication, music therapy, occupational therapy, physical therapy, and sensory integration.

Applied Behavior Analysis (ABA)
A notable treatment approach for people with an ASD is called applied behavior analysis (ABA). ABA has become widely accepted among health care professionals and used in many schools and treatment clinics. ABA encourages positive behaviors and discourages negative behaviors in order to improve a variety of skills. The child's progress is tracked and measured.

Developmental, Individual Differences, Relationship-Based Approach (DIR; also called “Floortime”)
Floortime focuses on emotional and relational development (feelings, relationships with caregivers). It also focuses on how the child deals with sights, sounds, and smells.

Treatment and Education of Autistic and related Communication-handicapped Children (TEACCH)
TEACCH uses visual cues to teach skills. For example, picture cards can help teach a child how to get dressed by breaking information down into small steps.

Occupational Therapy
Occupational therapy teaches skills that help the person live as independently as possible. Skills might include dressing, eating, bathing, and relating to people.

Sensory Integration Therapy
Sensory integration therapy helps the person deal with sensory information, like sights, sounds, and smells. Sensory integration therapy could help a child who is bothered by certain sounds or does not like to be touched.

Speech Therapy
Speech therapy helps to improve the person’s communication skills. Some people are able to learn verbal communication skills. For others, using gestures or picture boards is more realistic.

The Picture Exchange Communication System (PECS)
PECS uses picture symbols to teach communication skills. The person is taught to use picture symbols to ask and answer questions and have a conversation.

FROM BIRTH through SCHOOL AGE: (If you need to find testing for your child or young adult)

☐ At any age, seek medical evaluation with a psychologist or a medical provider who specializes in evaluating autism spectrum disorder.

☐ Ages Birth-3 years: Schedule a developmental evaluation by contacting Missouri First Steps.

☐ Ages 2 ½ to 3 years: If your child is already receiving services through Missouri First Steps, your team should start planning the transition to Early Childhood Special Education through the school district at age three. The transition process usually begins at age 2 ½. Ask your First Steps Service Coordinator if you have questions.

☐ Ages 3-5 years: If your child is between ages 3-5 years, contact your school district’s Early Childhood Special Education program and ask for developmental screening or evaluation.

☐ Ages 5 (Kindergarten) and Older: If your child is older than age five, contact the school district in writing to ask for an evaluation. The school will want to meet first to review any existing data about your child. They may also want to try simple interventions in the classroom first to see if this helps your child. If your concerns persist and simple classroom interventions do not help enough, send a letter requesting an evaluation. This testing is one of the steps in the process of qualifying for special education services.

FROM BIRTH through SCHOOL AGE: (If your child already has a diagnosis on the autism spectrum)

☐ Call 1-888-AUTISM2 to get the 100 Days Kit available from Autism Speaks. The kit is also available online at www.autismspeaks.org/community/family_services/100_day_kit.pp.

☐ Educate yourself on autism. Many books, websites, and materials are available (see Lending Libraries).

☐ Learn about the special education process including IEP’s (Individualized Education Programs). Attend workshops to learn about your child’s right to a free, appropriate, public education (see Parent Education). Prepare for your child’s IEP by making a list of your child’s strengths and challenges, your concerns, and your own ideas for goals.

☐ Contact your Regional Office to determine your child’s eligibility for services. Ask for the intake coordinator.

☐ Access respite care (See Respite Providers). Respite care is specialized child care in your home. Ask your case manager for more information on finding respite providers and funding sources for respite.

☐ Contact a developmental disability or autism-specific family support group. Call the state’s peer support network, Sharing Our Strengths (see Support Groups), and they will match you with another parent for mentorship and support by phone.

☐ Consider applying for Supplemental Security Income (see Resource Agencies). Under the age of 18, eligibility is based on parents’ income. Over the age of 18, eligibility is based on the income of the person who has a disability.

☐ Encourage your child to be as independent as possible. Give plenty of opportunities for him or her to make decisions and solve problems in order to prepare for life in the community. Plan recreation and social opportunities in the community to develop social interaction skills.
Begin estate-planning and personal futures-planning (see Estate Planning and Legal Resources). Explore a special needs trust and choose guardians for your child. Keep your will and/or trust up-to-date. Write down your thoughts and wishes about your child’s education, employment, socialization, and independent living.

Consider the needs of other family members. Professional counseling services are available to families dealing with a child’s disability as well as sibling supports (see Psychological Services and Sibling Supports).

AT AGE 14 TO 16 (in addition to the previous recommendations):

- Begin to prepare for the Transition Plan, a part of the IEP. The federal law (IDEA 2004) requires transition planning to begin at age 16 as part the IEP process. It is wise to begin planning well before that. Attend workshops on transition to learn more. Contact MPACT, your school district, (see Parent Education) or talk to your child’s special education teacher or school counselor for ideas.

- Consider community-based vocational instruction and work experiences during summer and the school year.

- Investigate options for adult employment and independent or supported living opportunities (see Adult Services and Supports).

- Apply for a Missouri ID card or driver’s license at a Missouri License Bureau Office at age 16. If your child will not be driving, investigate transportation options in the community. Include transportation training in the IEP to help your child learn to get around independently. Check with your case manager for more information.

- Research college programs that have supports for individuals with special learning needs if your child is eligible for these programs. If your student will not be attending college, explore continuing education programs which support students with disabilities.

- Consult with a lawyer about guardianship, conservatorship, and alternative legal options you will need to consider before your child reaches age 18. The Missouri Planning Council and the Missouri Developmental Disability Resource Center both have information on alternatives to guardianship (see Resource Agencies).

- Begin to explore services available through Vocational Rehabilitation before your child leaves school (see Adult Services and Supports). Determination of eligibility can take awhile. Invite a representative of DVR to attend your child’s IEP. Ask for input and discuss work options. Begin the process toward job development, which can take a year or more. Brainstorm about who you know in the community that might be a possible job lead.

AT AGE 18 (in addition to previous recommendations):

- Apply for SSI and Medicaid if needed. Eligibility is now based on the young adult’s income.

- Make sure your family member has registered to vote.

- Check on health insurance coverage for your child. Some insurance companies require an application for a dependent child with a disability before the age of 19.

AT AGE 20 (or year of leaving school - in addition to previous recommendations):

- Discuss with your Regional Office case manager which adult service agencies your family member with autism might utilize. Contact those agencies to begin the enrollment process.

- Continue to plan for future living arrangements, either supported or independent. Increase independence through socialization opportunities.
The Office of Autism Services provides administrative support for children and adults who have Autism Spectrum Disorders. Their website has information on autism initiatives in Missouri, a calendar of events, links to autism resources, and information on autism. This Office also provides support for the Missouri Commission on Autism Spectrum Disorders.

The Department of Mental Health – Division of Developmental Disabilities offers services and supports for individuals with autism and other developmental disorders in Missouri. It is important to contact your local Regional Office of the Division of Developmental Disabilities to see if your family member qualifies for these services. Also, you may need to be enrolled with the Regional Office in order to receive services from other agencies who receive Department of Mental Health funding.

What does the Regional Office do? – Staff at the local Regional Offices performs these duties:

- Determine whether a person is eligible for services (Intake)
- Deliver service coordination. They do this by visiting with families at least once a year to develop a person-centered plan, monitoring services by calling the individual or family quarterly, and linking families with appropriate resources
- Fund services written in the person-centered plan if the individual qualifies for funding. Check with your service coordinator for details.

The Division of Developmental Disabilities provides services and supports in the individual’s home, in the community, and in licensed residential centers.

How Do You Contact the Local Regional Office?
Call the Division of Developmental Disabilities toll-free at 1-800-207-9329 and ask for the number of your local Regional Office. Numbers are listed at the end of this section.

What is Service Coordination?
Every individual who is eligible for Regional Office services may receive service coordination, also called targeted case management. Service coordinators help people with disabilities and their families to find the services and supports they need. They may assist with completing paperwork if needed and may attend school IEPs if the family invites them. The individual or family will work with the service coordinator to develop a person-centered plan.

What is Person-Centered Planning?

Person-centered planning is a process used to determine the goals, services, and supports that an individual with a developmental disability needs in order to function as independently as possible.

Basic Guide to Autism in Missouri | Missouri Families for Effective Autism Treatment
You may find assistance through your county’s Senate Bill (SB) 40 Board. The SB40 Board is a source of funding and services at the local level for people with developmental disabilities. These Boards are funded through special tax levies passed to benefit people with developmental disabilities. Some counties use these tax levies to purchase services for their residents through sheltered workshops, residential facilities, or related services, for the support, care or employment of persons who have a developmental disability. Other county boards provide their own services and use the funding to establish and pay for these services. Many county board agencies also contract with their local Regional Office to provide various services including residential supports, day habilitation, personal assistant hours, and job coaching.

Over 80 counties in Missouri and St. Louis City currently have a tax in place to support a SB40 Board in their county. Many of those counties belong to the state organization of SB40 boards, the Missouri Association of County Developmental Disabilities Services (MACDDS). Website: www.macdds.org

Some counties have other names for their SB40 Boards. Here are some examples:

What are the Access Crisis Intervention phone lines?
The Access Crisis Intervention (ACI) phone lines are staffed by mental health professionals who can respond to your crisis 24 hours per day and 7 days per week. They will talk with you about your crisis and help you determine what further help you might need. They may refer you to other resources or services within your community to provide you with more help and ongoing care. All calls are strictly confidential. The staff who answer these phones may or may not know much about autism, but they should know about resources in your area.

How does the Missouri Mental Health System work?

It is common for individuals with Autism Spectrum Disorders to have mental health issues including depression, anxiety, obsessive-compulsive disorder, bipolar disorder, and other psychiatric diagnoses.

What does the Division of Comprehensive Psychiatric Services (CPS) do?

Some people need to look for extra help beyond the expertise of the Division of Developmental Disabilities staff. If your family member with autism has a serious mental illness, he or she might also qualify for services through the Department of Mental Health’s Division of Comprehensive Psychiatric Services (CPS). Services might include psychology, psychiatry, counseling, residential services, in-home supports, or other types of help.

If you are experiencing an emergency, call 9-1-1.

Always take threats of suicide seriously and take action.
Contact the Community Mental Health Center for follow-up care after the crisis.
Who do I call for help?

- If you already have a case manager, contact that person first for help.
- If you do not have a case manager, contact your local Regional Office first to find out whether your family member with autism might be eligible for services through the Division of Developmental Disabilities.
- If the person with autism also has a serious mental illness, call your local Community Mental Health Center to find out whether your family member might also be eligible for services through the Division of Comprehensive Psychiatric Services.
- If you are not sure who to call, call your local Regional Office and ask for help.

If you are unable to find the help you need, call the Office of Autism Services toll-free at 1-800-207-9329 and ask for help.

What are Community Mental Health Centers?

Community Mental Health Centers provide psychological and psychiatric care for people with mental health issues. If a person with autism also has a diagnosis of a mental illness, they may be able to access mental health services through their local Community Mental Health Centers (CMHC). Call the Intake Department to ask about screening for eligibility.

The CMHCs do accept Medicaid and also have sliding fee scales for uninsured persons. The staff at the centers may or may not have training or experience in working with people who have autism spectrum disorders.

You will find the main Community Mental Health Centers (CMHC) for each region listed on the next pages. There are usually other satellite offices of the Community Mental Health Centers as well. Ask if there is an office close to you and whether there is anyone available who has experience with autism.

Insurance Coverage for Autism

Information for Families by Families: A Product of MO-FEAT and the Missouri Autism Coalition

The Missouri law requiring insurance coverage of autism diagnosis and treatment went into effect on January 1, 2011, or the date that your company's insurance plan renews for the year. Contact your employer to verify whether your policy is subject to the new state law and to find out what annual date your group policy renews.

To read the legislation that mandates insurance coverage for autism in Missouri, go to www.house.mo.gov and search on HB1311 for the year 2010.

Which insurance policies are required to offer this coverage?

Missouri legislation can only affect some of the group health care plans in our state. To find out whether this law applies to your policy, contact your employer. Ask what type of insurance policy you are under and if your policy is subject to changes in state law. Self-funded plans are regulated by ERISA - and are regulated by federal law but are not subject to Missouri regulation. Large companies (e.g., Boeing, Sprint, Cerner, etc) often have self-funded plans.

State employee health plans also included in the new law, as well as some state university employee plans. Check with your benefits administrator.

MO HealthNet (Medicaid) should already be paying for therapies prescribed by the doctor for individuals ages birth to 21 years; although the courts are still debating whether Medicaid should cover ABA therapy.

For families who have individual health care plans sold in Missouri, the insurer must also offer an optional plan for the employee to purchase which offers these same benefits.

Which services are included in the legislation?

Insurance companies must cover diagnosis of autism as well as medically necessary treatment prescribed for the individual with autism by a licensed physician or licensed psychologist. Treatment includes, but is not limited to: (a) Psychiatric care; (b) Psychological care; (c) Habilitative or rehabilitative care, including applied behavior analysis (ABA) therapy; (d) Therapeutic care; and (e) Pharmacy care. Please refer to HB1311 for definitions of these services. ABA therapy is capped at age 18 and $40,000. Equipment that is medically necessary for such care is also covered (e.g., electronic speech devices).

The provider of the service must be licensed in the state of Missouri. Behavior analysts will need to have a license to practice in Missouri beginning January 1, 2012. This applies to BCBA’s and BCABA’s. Refer to the next section for an explanation of these terms.
What do the Credential Letters mean behind the names of behavior analysts?

- BCBA - Board Certified Behavior Analyst. Same, but with a Masters Degree and additional coursework and supervised experience. This is the highest level of certification specific to ABA. The letters BCBA-D indicate a Board Certified Behavior Analyst who has a doctoral degree.

- BCABA - Board Certified Associate Behavior Analyst. Requires a Bachelor's degree, specialized coursework, supervised experience, and a certification exam. This is not a guarantee of quality but indicates a significant level of training and experience.

The new law requires everyone who intends to practice behavior analysis to apply for a state license. It does not mean that you only have to have a license if you are billing insurance for ABA. Therefore, it applies to anyone who is practicing behavior analysis (with an exemption for public school staff implementing IDEA and 504 Plans, and students doing ABA practicum).

How do you choose a qualified provider?

- Request a resume and references from the provider.

- Interview the ABA provider before hiring them.

- Ask other parents/professionals for recommendations. MO-FEAT can connect you with other parents in your area, or you can pose questions to parents through the A-List, an online support group for parents (if interested, contact the MO-FEAT office). See below for questions to ask other families.

- Certification and licensure for behavior analysts (both BCBA and BCABAs) will be required in Missouri as of January 1, 2012. Currently, ABA providers may voluntarily pursue certification through the Behavior Analyst Certification Board (BACB). Certified providers must adhere to a code of ethics. You can find out if a provider is certified by searching the BACB website at www.bacb.com. Click on Certificant Registry.

- Certification only means a person has met the minimum criteria to practice as a behavior analyst. It does not guarantee quality or effectiveness. Associate Behavior Analysts (BCABA’s) must be supervised by a fully certified Behavior Analyst (BCBA). BCBA’s being hired to run and supervise ABA programs should have experience and training on how to supervise others, and how to develop appropriate programs.
Questions to Ask Other Families

Other parents can be a great source of referrals. You may want to specifically ask these questions:

Do you feel that the ABA Provider,

- Has worked well with other children of the same age and learning style as yours?
- Accepts input from the parent?
- Works well with school staff and other members of the child’s team?
- Is reliable and punctual?
- Responds promptly to mail or phone calls?
- Handles billing and paperwork well?

Signs of a Good Behavior Analyst Checklist [Missouri Association of Behavior Analysis (MO-ABA)]

- Can describe the exact purpose of an intervention, prerequisite skills necessary, and how the intervention will be conducted whether the focus is to increase or decrease a selected behavior or skill
- Uses data collection before, during, and after an intervention to measure the effects and reviews data regularly to determine whether progress was made or changes in interventions are necessary
- Only promotes interventions that are data driven and research based
- Has formal education in the field of behavior analysis, abides by the ethical code for behavior analysts, and has experienced supervision/mentoring in designing, implementing, and supervising behavior analytic interventions (see www.bacb.org for certification requirements)
- Attends regular professional development in the field of behavior analysis and stays current on research and literature
- Focuses on both increasing new adaptive skills (e.g., functional communication, self care, social skills, etc.) and decreasing maladaptive behaviors (e.g., noncompliance, over-selectivity, etc.) to promote individual client’s quality of life
- Determines client needs or goals from data collected through an initial assessment, then breaks skills down into smaller component skills, focusing on skills necessary for basic functioning first
- Utilizes multiple instructional methods under the scope of behavior analysis based on the needs of the client (e.g., discrete trial teaching, incidental teaching, task analysis and chaining, embedding trials in ongoing activities, etc.)
- Uses clearly defined instructions, prompts, and reinforcement to teach new skills
- Focuses on staff and/or family training to promote consistent implementation of interventions and generalization/maintenance of skills

What is MPACT?

Do you need help to understand your student’s right to receive a free, appropriate, public education?

Do you have questions about how to find help for your student at school?

Are you struggling to deal with challenging behaviors at school? Preparing for transition to adult life?

MPACT can assist you with information and training about any of these issues and much more! MPACT is a statewide parent training and information center that serves parents of children with all disabilities. Their mission is to ensure that all children with special needs receive an education which allows them to achieve their personal goals. MPACT’s primary goal is to assist parents in their effort to effectively advocate for their children's educational rights and services. MPACT staff and volunteers are located throughout Missouri and work with public and private agencies, parent groups, professional organizations and advocacy groups to achieve that goal.

Parents of children with disabilities face challenges every day that other parents don’t have. It is often difficult to navigate the maze of special services and create a plan that will help children achieve successful outcomes through education. But how do we reach these goals? How do we know what choices to make for and with our children? MPACT can help answer your questions.

MPACT provides up-to-date information online, as well as training sessions that take place year-round throughout the state. You may call their toll-free number (1.800.743.7634) and let the staff answer any questions you may have. You may also request more information through Missouri’s education agency (Missouri Department of Elementary and Secondary Education) or your local school district.
